

ST JOSEPH'S CATHOLIC HIGH SCHOOL ADVERTISING FEATURE

Up to date for STEM technology

ST JOSEPH'S Catholic High School is undertaking a re-design and development of its design and technology area. This part of the school has provided the classrooms needed for the teaching of woodwork, metalwork, electronic and construction since the school was opened in 1982.

It is now time to bring these areas up to date to provide 21st century learning environments for their students and teachers. The redesign of this area will allow the school to meet new expectations which come from the emphasis on STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics) education.

STEM is a worldwide re-focus of education on these core areas of learning.

"Here at St Joseph's we want to provide the most modern facilities so that our students and teachers can explore these critical curriculum areas," a spokesperson said.

"The TAS area will be re-designed and rebuilt so that it reflects this emphasis. It will become our STEM/TAS area of the school, providing contemporary learning spaces and up to date technology so that the best outcomes for students can be achieved.

"This rebuilding is part of our 'Making a Better School', a school which promotes learning but also promotes the key values of Respect and Responsibility values which lead to better results for all.

"We do this in the context of a Catholic Christian education which strives to help young people achieve their best and do their best both for themselves and for their community."

Phone St Joseph's, at 16 Macquarie St in Albion Park, on 4230 8500 or see www.sjchsdown.catholic.edu.au/

FOCUS: STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics) improves students' problem-solving and critical analysis skills to help prepare them for possible STEM careers and improve Australia's international competitiveness.

READY FOR THE 21ST CENTURY: A renovation at St Joseph's Catholic High School has created a modern, learning environment for their students and teachers.

MORE THAN LEARNING: Key values of Respect and Responsibility lead to better results for all the students at St Joseph's Catholic High School.

ST JOSEPH'S
CATHOLIC HIGH SCHOOL

Limited vacancies available in
Stage 4 - Years 7 & 8
&
Stage 6 - Yr 11 & 12

4230 8500

16 Macquarie St,
Albion Park

www.sjchsdown.catholic.edu.au

